Board looks to catch boundary jumpers

By Nicol Jenkins
STAFF WRITER

Picture this: It's approaching the last year of high school and once again time to provide proof of home address. But your family has moved outside of the school's boundary that has been your home away from home for three years.

What to do?

Many students and families are giving false addresses.

Although those students may not realize that one "little white lie" causes a ripple effect of: overcrowded classes, longer lunch lines, and a later dismissal.

And the problem is more and more students and families are giving false addresses to remain at choice schools. Thus, overcrowding Palm Beach County schools.

But not for long. The Palm Beach County School Board is cracking down on boundary jumpers.

Meaning it won't be easy for students to attend school with a false address.

The board recently approved a proposed new policy to strengthen requirements to catch boundary jumpers or hoppers, or those students using false addresses to attend county schools outside boundaries. The policy must receive final adoption in July.

Under the new policy, upon enrollment students must show two proofs of address. Students can show: a current telephone or electric bill, rent receipt with name of tenant and landlord and contact information, lease agreement with name of tenant and landlord and contact information, mortgage commitment, automobile insurance, current Florida driver's license, cellular telephone bill, credit card statement, U.S. postal service confirmation of address change request or evidence of Lieutenant Patrick Bayne is this year's recipient of the Boca Raton Fire-Rescue Services Distinguished Service Award in Education.

Boca fire lieutenant receives service award in education

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Boca Raton Fire-Rescue Services has announced that Lt. Patrick Bayne has received the Boca Raton Fire Rescue Services Distinguished Service Award in Education.

Bayne has been working for Boca Raton Fire-Rescue Services for more than 10 years. He is responsible for the scheduling of advanced life support medical training for the new-hires during the first phase of training.

He is a member of Boca Raton Fire-Rescue Services' award-winning paramedic competition team consisting of four firefighter paramedics who study and train throughout the year to compete and attend seminars in Orlando, Miami and Jacksonville.

His responsibilities include scheduling practices, defining study materials and writing practice scenarios.

Understanding the importance of training and the knowledge gained in attending competitions, Bayne suggested that Boca Raton host a competition. He is one of the coordinators and a judge at Boca Raton Fire Rescue's first "2007 EMS Challenge" competition. This will be held on June 19 at Boca Raton Community Hospital.

Bayne has assisted in the start-up of Florida Atlantic University's Sim-Lab. This state-of-the-art training facility will enhance the training of paramedics, EMT's, doctors and nurses. Bayne has been instrumental in helping to write the training scenarios for the Sim-lab. He has attended a conference in Tampa to learn how to run the computer driven Human Patient Simulator, a $35,000 simulation mannequin used in training Boca Raton Fire-Rescue Services paramedics and EMT's.

Tonight's meeting will be run by the new chairman and vice chairman.

Carville joins Klein and Mahoney to address Democratic dinner

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The Palm Beach County Democratic Party has announced that noted Democratic strategist James Carville will be a featured speaker for the party's 2007 Jefferson-Jackson Dinner June 16. The event will take place at the Palm Beach County Convention Center, 650 Okeechobee Boulevard, West Palm Beach, at 7 p.m.

Sometimes known as the "Ragin' Cajun," Carville is a Democratic media commentator, author and political consultant who has guided some of the most dramatic political victories -- including the successful 1992 presidential campaign of then-Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton.

The evening's keynote speeches will be given by freshmen U.S. Representatives Ron Klein and Tim Mahoney, who captured previously held Republican seats in the November 2006 election, which saw Democrats regain control of the U.S. House and U.S. Senate.

Other speakers will include: U.S. Senator Bill Nelson; U.S.

James Carville

Representatives Alcee Hastings, Kendrick Meek, and Robert Wexler; Florida Chief Financial Officer & Cabinet Member Alex Sink; National Organization for Women President Kim Gandy; Vice Chair of the Democratic National Committee Susan Turnbull; and Congressional Candidate Christine Jennings. Stephanie Kurtzuba, currently starring in the Broadway hit "Mary Poppins" will sing the National Anthem and present a musical program.

Cornell Museum's 14th all-Florida juried fine art exhibition opens

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The Cornell Museum of Art & History at Old School Square Cultural Arts Center recently announced the 13th annual All-Florida Juried Fine Art Exhibition, June 14 through Sept. 8.

Organized by the Cornell Museum, the competition, which closed in March, was open to all Florida artists and drew more than 200 entries.

An awards reception is scheduled for June 21 from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m., where $2,500 in cash prizes will be awarded, including Best of Show; three Awards of Excellence (for two-dimensional fine art, sculpture and photography); Special Recognition Awards and Merit Awards. The reception is free for Old School Square members and exhibiting artists; non-members are $6.

The Cornell Museum's summer hours are Tuesday-Saturday, 10:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Admission is $6 general; $4 seniors and students (14-21); children 13 and under are free.

The 2007 All-Florida exhibit features 70 works by 59 artists from Bay Harbour Island to Ocala in a variety of media including watercolor, oil, acrylic, graphite, mixed media, collage, pen and ink, stone, wood, digital and traditional photography. Gloria Rejune Adams, Cornell Museum Director said, "The works exhibited this year are an eclectic combination of realism and abstract -- something for everyone -- and a delightful discovery of talented regional artists."

The juror for this year's exhibition is, Ora Sorensen, owner of Ora Sorensen Gallery in Delray Beach. In her Juror's Statement, Ora said, "It has been my great pleasure and honor to review the art work submitted for the 2007 All Florida Juried show at the Cornell Museum of Art. The entries were all wonderful to see, and needless to say there was not enough wall space to select all the paintings that were worthy. I feel that art is a form of communication and all artwork is valid and has a message. I feel the art that I chose fits together in a cohesive way and exemplifies the wonderful talent in our state. I am so proud that Florida is home to so many who are part of today's art world."

POLICE BLOTTER

Cars burglarized

A woman told Boca Raton police May 19 that her car and her husband's vehicle were both entered. Police said both vehicles were ransacked and a car wash card was taken.

Bike theft

A Boca Raton man told police May 22 that someone stole his 10-speed bike from outside a building on North Federal Highway, police said.

Credit card misuse

Boca Raton police said a man came to the station May 22 to report that someone used his stolen credit card at a local gasoline station twice on May 15. He said the card was stolen from his wife's car at a store in Delray Beach that same day.

Fraudulent email

A resident of Boca Raton told police that he received a fraudulent email May 21 from a Web site claiming to be a large national bank. He said the email asked for personal information because the bank was having trouble with its computers.

Theft from car

A Boca Raton woman told police someone stole $300 worth of CDs from her car. The theft occurred on NE Marine Drive on either May 20 or May 21, she told police.

Drug charges

Boca Raton police arrested a man about 5 p.m. May 22 on charges of possession of oxycodone and possession of drug paraphernalia, police said. He was arrested after a traffic stop on St. Andrews Boulevard. He was processed and taken to the county jail, police said.

Debit card missing

A Boca Raton man called police May 22 to report that his wife's debit card was either lost or stolen. From May 1 to May 21, it was used 17 times to spend more than $3,000. Police said the card was used at various locations around Boca Raton.

Agilysys continues to buy; acquires InfoGenesis for $42 million

> InfoGenesis is involved in casinos, hotels and resorts, cruise lines, stadiums and foodservice. The acquisition will provide Agilysys a complementary offering that will extend its reach into new segments of the hospitality market, broaden its customer base and increase its software application offerings, according to Agilysys CFO Martin Ellis.

> In addition to its California headquarters, InfoGenesis has a customer operations and support center in Las Vegas. The company has approximately 170 employees.

> Based on its growth plans, CFO Ellis said the company has established several long-term financial goals, including:

- Grow sales from approximately $500 million to $1 billion within two years and to $1.5 billion in three years.
- Target gross margins in excess of 20 percent and EBITDA margins of six percent within three years.
- While in the near term return on invested capital will be diluted due to acquisitions and legacy costs, the company continues to target long-term return on capital of 15 percent.

By John Johnston
MANAGING EDITOR

Adding to its growing portfolio of acquisitions, Boca Raton based Agilysys has agreed to spend $42 million for InfoGenesis, a southern California based privately held IT firm focused on hospitality software solutions.

Only last week Agilysys announced its $100 million acquisition of Edison, NJ based Innovativ Systems Design, Inc., a privately held firm that, and at approximately $260 million in revenues, is the largest U.S. commercial reseller of Sun Microsystems servers and storage products.

The Innovativ acquisition "will establish a new and significant relationship between Sun and Agilysys," said Agilysys President and CEO Arthur Rhein. "Moreover, the addition of Sun expands Agilysys' offerings to include four of the most pervasive computer technology suppliers: EMC, HP, IBM and Sun," he said.

Hospitality Industry

InfoGenesis is involved in casinos, hotels and resorts, cruise lines, stadiums and foodservice. The acquisition will provide Agilysys a complementary offering that will extend its reach into new segments of the hospitality market, broaden its customer base and increase its software application offerings, according to Agilysys CFO Martin Ellis.

"With some of the world's leading properties as customers, the acquisition of InfoGenesis will further strengthen Agilysys' market position in the hospitality industry," said CEO Arthur Rhein. "The acquisition will also provide us a competitive advantage with enhanced levels of integration between property management, POS, and inventory and procurement systems, as well as our golf course and spa management applications.

Rhein added "over the years, we have worked closely with InfoGenesis at a number of mutual customer locations and together will market a powerful single-source solution that enables properties to increase guest loyalty and overall profitability."

In addition to its California headquarters, InfoGenesis has a customer operations and support center in Las Vegas. The company has approximately 170 employees.

Rhein added that the InfoGenesis announcement continues the company's recent aggressive acquisition activity. Over the last six months, this is the second acquisition Agilysys has made in the hospitality IT market and the fourth overall. In addition to the Innovativ acquisition, recent buys include:

Stack Computer, a technology integrator with a focus in high availability storage infrastructure solutions.

Visual One Systems, a developer and marketer of Microsoft(R) Windows(R)-based software for the hospitality industry including applications in property management, condominium, golf course, spa, point-of-sale, and sales and catering management.

Rhein said, "I continue to be impressed with our organization's ability to execute our strategic plan, including the rapid identification, negotiation and integration of targeted acquisitions."

Long-Term

Based on its growth plans, CFO Ellis said the company has established several long-term financial goals, including:

- Grow sales from approximately $500 million to $1 billion within two years and to $1.5 billion in three years.
- Target gross margins in excess of 20 percent and EBITDA margins of six percent within three years.
- While in the near term return on invested capital will be diluted due to acquisitions and legacy costs, the company continues to target long-term return on capital of 15 percent.

The recent acquisitions are consistent with these plans, according to Rhein. Including the acquisitions listed above, Agilysys has pro forma revenues in excess of $850 million, according to Ellis.

Boca student traveling to D.C. for an educational journey

By Nicol Jenkins
STAFF WRITER

Carlos LaRocca will soon leave Boca Raton for a weeklong educational journey to the heart of politics in the nation's capital.

For the first time, LaRocca will visit historic sites, meet with government officials and view policymaking in Washington D.C.

LaRocca, a junior at Spanish River High School in Boca Raton, will attend Presidential Classroom's National Security in a Democracy program in Washington D.C. from June 10 to June 16.

"I'm excited," said the 15-year-old, who was chosen because of academic achievement. "I'm looking forward to meeting new people and learning more about national security."

Presidential Classroom's mission is to provide civic education programs for outstanding high school students using Washington D.C. as a classroom. More than 120,000 students from across the United States and around the world have attended Presidential Classroom's weeklong programs, gaining knowledge, insight and experience from this educational opportunity, according to its website.

Through the program, students experience the inner workings of government and policy formation firsthand, through seminars and site visits in Washington D.C. During the weeklong program, PC scholars interact with Washington insiders including members of Congress, presidential appointees, senior military officials, top business leaders and journalists.

Students also observe the U.S. Congress in action and visit congressional offices and debate current issues with peers from the United States and abroad. Additionally, students visit sites such as the U.S. Department of State and Arlington National Cemetery. Additional program highlights include a seminar on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives, a tour of the Pentagon and visits to the Federal Bureau of Investigation Training Academy and Manassas National Battlefield in Virginia.

"Presidential Classroom is dedicated to challenging the leaders of tomorrow to learn, understand and take action on the formidable problems that face our nation and our world," said Presidential Classroom Executive Director Elizabeth A. Sherman, Ph.D.

Sherman added, "With Washington D.C. as our classroom, we attract outstanding high school students to a series of discussions with influential leaders and policy makers, site visits to national institutions, exercises and debates on topics of prominent importance, and interaction with teachers, mentors and peers. I am delighted to welcome this student to join Presidential Classroom for what promises to be a vital step toward civic engagement and meaningful participation in public leadership."

Presidential Classroom focuses on communications and journalism, science, technology and public policy, law and justice, global business and entrepreneurship, and the National Security policy. Students can earn college credit

Townhouse plan for Boca Teeca re-ignites anger

By Dale M. King
CITY EDITOR

When a developer wanted to come in and reconfigure the golf course at Boca Teeca, allowing him to build a couple of hundred townhouses on the property, a lot of people opposed it. But a lot of them went along with the plan.

So many, in fact, that when it was put to a vote, a majority of residents voted to allow the lifting of a permanent recreational zoning designation on that piece of property.

That developer will present his proposal to the Planning & Zoning Board at its meeting tonight at 6:30 in City Hall. It appears—from emails received in City Hall and at the Boca Raton News—that a lot of people—most of them against the plan—will show up at the session.

Dennis Taback, whose company, MCZ Centrum Florida V, bought the golf course for $7.2 million in December 2004, wants to construct 211 town homes on about 30 acres on the west side of the golf course. Also in the mix is a new 10,000 square foot social center on the southwest side of what will remain a 27-hole golf course surrounding the development along NW Second Avenue.

Little change

MCZ has reduced the number of units from 225 to 211, but the rest of the plan remains virtually the same.

The Federation of Boca Raton Homeowner Associations got a momentary vision of tonight's session. At its meeting Tuesday, Charles Gershon of Teeca Woods said 33 homes will be "severely impacted" by the construction. He accused the developer of "promising" a new social hall and "putting money into condo treasuries" to get his way.

He also asked the federation to support the golf course opponents.

Shirley Schnuer, president of the Boca Teeca Unit Owners Association, rose and shouted that what Gershon said "wasn't true." She asked that the motion be tabled until the proponents have their say.

Before President Linda Bauman halted discussion, several other people rose and started to yell and point fingers.

"Benefits" community

A spokeswoman for the developer said "plans call for 211 town homes coupled with benefits for the community, including a multi-million dollar update to the country club, expansion of the inn and a new 10,000 square foot social center. The plans are intended to revitalize a community that hasn't had any major upgrade in more than 25 years."

She noted that Boca Teeca's 1,600 unit owners "consented by a large majority to lift the deed restriction. That allows for the new development by reconfiguring a small portion of the community's south course, while retaining 27 holes of golf and golf course views for existing homeowners."

"A catalyst for the plan is the expiration of mandatory club membership for Boca Teeca's existing unit owners at the end of 2009," she said. "This plan builds long-term economic viability of the club, with upgraded facilities and income from the new town home buyers' memberships."

But in an email to the City Council, Katherine Cabra of Fairway Drive said: "Please listen to the residents of the area. We are against any more development in the area. How can you in good conscience approve building, when we are not sure there is enough wa-

Delray Commission commends Ocean Rescue team for saving seven people

By Dale M. King

CITY EDITOR

Five inexperienced swimmers were nearly swept out to sea May 19 by a rip current that slammed the Delray town beach.

Two others jumped in to help — and they were also caught in the grasp of the tugging current.

Five members of the Delray Beach Ocean Rescue team quickly jumped in and managed to bring all seven to shore without injury. For that, the team members — Ed Noon, Mike Gaylord, Conor Gorman, Luigi Pratt and Scott Moore — have won the praises of the Delray Beach City Commission.

Noon and Pratt joined Superintendent Bob Taylor to accept commendations from the City Commission at its meeting Monday. Mayor Rita Ellis said the men “used their skills” to “avoid a potential tragedy.”

Taylor noted that this past May, the ocean has been very turbulent, and many have drowned as a result of rip currents. He said May is normally a quiet month.

Other business

In other business, the commission gave initial approval to a land development regulations amendment to provide an exemption to the prohibition of office uses on the ground floor of buildings on East Atlantic avenue. The matter proceeds to a public hearing at the next meeting June 19.

Currently, first floor offices along East Atlantic Avenue are considered non-conforming uses.

Also, commissioners approved the request of the Zion Study Circle to use the city seal in its early history book about Delray Beach.

Also approved was a request to conduct Art & Jazz on the Avenue June 28 from 6 to 10 p.m. The temporary permit will allow the closing of several downtown streets. The approval also authorizes staff support for security and traffic control, banner hanging and removal, barricade set up and removal and cleanup.

Human Resources and You

A recent federal appeals court decision highlights a potentially treacherous problem: the possibility that an employee handbook creates terms that violates the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA). The decision, focusing on a seemingly non-controversial policy concerning the confidentiality of employer records in a non-unionized setting, is of serious concern to both non-unionized and unionized employees alike.

The policy at issue in Cintas Corp. v NLRB, 2007 U.S. App. Lexis 6075 (D.C. Cir. Mar. 16, 2007), was found in a section of Cintas’s handbook, titled “Cintas Culture,” which describes its “principles and values.” It included the following discussion of how employees (referred to by Cintas as “partners”) are expected to treat confidential information:

“We honor confidentiality. We recognize and protect the confidentiality of any information concerning the company and its business plans, partners, new business efforts, customers, and accounting and financial matters.”

The handbook further stated, in another section, titled “Discipline Policy,” that employees could be sanctioned for “violating a confidence or [for the] unauthorized release of confidential information.”

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit affirmed a decision of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), which held that the policy violated Section 8 of the NLRA. Section 8 prohibits employers from “interfere[ing] with, restrain[ing], or coerce[ing] employees,” 29 U.S.C. § 158(a)(1), in the exercise of their Section 7 rights “to self-organization, to form, join or assist labor organizations . . . and to engage in other concerted activities for . . . mutual aid or protection.” 29 U.S.C. § 157.

The court agreed with the NLRB, even though the confidentiality provision did not specifically restrict Section 7 activity (e.g., by instructing employees not to discuss wages or other terms and conditions of employment with each other). Disturbingly, the court held that the provision violated the NLRA because “employees would reasonably construe the language to prohibit Section 7 activity.”

The court, and the board, based this finding on the breadth of the confidentiality provision — specifically the “all-encompassing phrase ‘any information concerning . . . its partners’” — which made no effort to distinguish Section 7 activity from violations of company policy. Moreover, the court agreed with the NLRB that whether anyone had actually been disciplined under the policy for sharing wage information was irrelevant, because the “mere maintenance of a rule likely to chill Section 7 activity, whether explicitly or through reasonable interpretation, can amount to an unfair labor practice.”

Retiree named ‘Ombudsman of Year’ for Palm Beach County

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Delores McCarthy never imagined she would be celebrating her 10th year of retirement as “Ombudsman of the Year” for the Palm Beach Council of Florida’s Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program.

Shortly after retiring from a long nursing career, McCarthy began searching for a way to give back to her community. She found her way with the ombudsman program, which seeks to ensure the health, safety, welfare and rights of frail elders living in local nursing homes, assisted living facilities and adult family care homes.

She received the “Ombudsman of the Year” honor earlier this month for her outstanding commitment to advocating for the long-term care facility residents of Palm Beach County. When she became an ombudsman, she agreed to volunteer 20 hours a month, but she often puts much more time into her work with those she helps.

“It’s hard to explain the satisfaction I get out of it, getting to know people and hearing their stories,” said McCarthy, a mother of three and grandmother of four who said she’s honored to receive the award. “I most enjoy finding solutions, because whatever a person’s problem is, it is real to them.”

According to the LTCOP annual report — available at <http://elder-affairs.state.fl.us> — 32 volunteer ombudsmen from the Palm Beach Council investigated 736 complaints last year. Statewide, volunteer ombudsmen aided 50,000 of Florida’s 163,000 long-term care residents with issues ranging from poor menu quality and billing practices to medication administration and improper evictions.

“Our volunteer ombudsmen are extremely dedicated,” said State Long-Term Care Ombudsman and Program Director Brian Lee. “It is important to recognize the standard they are setting. I hope this recognition encourages more people to get involved in their community by becoming ombudsmen.”

Administered by the Florida Department of Elder Affairs, the Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program trains and certifies its more than 300 volunteers to personally respond to the concerns of elders residing in nursing homes, assisted living facilities and adult family care homes, as well as those of their families and other concerned citizens. All program services are provided at no charge, and all complaints are confidential.

Many district councils, including the Palm Beach Council, are currently seeking more volunteers. To learn more about the Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program’s services and volunteer opportunities, call toll-free (888) 831-0404 or visit <http://ombudsman.myflorida.com>.

CITY OF DELRAY BEACH COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT (CDBG) AND STATE HOUSING INITIATIVES PARTNERSHIP (SHIP) NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY

FY 2007-2008 CDBG CONSOLIDATED ANNUAL ACTION PLAN

- Delray Beach Public Library, 100 West Atlantic Avenue, Delray Beach
- Delray Beach Housing Authority, 600 N. Congress Ave, Ste. 310B, Delray Beach

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) requires that an Annual Action Plan for the City of Delray Beach be proposed, then adopted by the City Commission and approved by HUD, before the City can receive Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds. The FY 2008 Program Year includes $596,076 in CDBG funds available October 1, 2007, for the third year of the City’s 2005-2010 Five-Year Consolidated Plan. The primary objective of the CDBG program is the development of viable urban communities characterized by the provision of decent housing, a suitable living environment, and expanding economic opportunities for individuals/households of low- to moderate-incomes. Each CDBG activity must specifically address one of the following national objectives: 1. to benefit low- to moderate-income households; 2. to aid in the prevention or elimination of slum or blight; 3. to meet community development needs having a particular urgency. The City CDBG entitlement for FY 2007-2008 will be $596,076 and has been categorized by the following proposed objectives:

HOUSING	$266,956
Owner Occupied Housing Rehabilitation
CDBG PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION	$114,710
General management, oversight, and coordination of the CDBG program & CD Division
PUBLIC FACILITIES AND IMPROVEMENTS	$100,000
Installation of pedestrian sidewalks within the CDBG Target Area in support of the SW Neighborhood Redevelopment Plan.
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT	$25,000
Funds in support of various eligible technical assistance & economic development activities
PUBLIC SERVICE	$89,410
Funds in support of various eligible public service activities consistent with needs identified in the City’s Five-Year Consolidated Plan and are subject to a 15% cap of annual allocation.
TOTAL CDBG FY2007-2008 EXPENDITURES	$596,076

The proposed Annual Action Plan is available at the locations above as of the date of the publication of this notice, June 7, 2007. All written comments received in the Community Development Division at the address below by July 10, 2007, will be responded to prior to submission to HUD. To submit written comments or if you require further information, please call Elizabeth B. Alpert, Community Development Administrator, at (561) 243-7280 or visit the City’s Community Development Division at Delray Beach City Hall, 100 NW 1st Avenue, Delray Beach, FL 33444. Citizens who require special assistance are encouraged to call the above telephone number so that special arrangements can be made.

FY 2007-2008 STATE HOUSING INITIATIVES PARTNERSHIP (SHIP) PROGRAM

The City of Delray Beach shall receive $576,008 as an allocation of State Housing Initiatives Partnership Program funds from the State of Florida to assist very-low, low-, and moderate-income households in various activities. Activities for FY07-08 include Sub-Recipient Partnership/Home Ownership program; Owner-occupied Housing Rehabilitation; Disaster Relief which provides funds for house repairs in the aftermath of a declared Disaster; and Foreclosure Prevention which allocates payment assistance to owner occupied households whose home is in the process of foreclosure due to extenuating circumstances.

HOUSING
Sub-Recipient Partnership Program (Home Ownership)	$312,407
Owner Occupied Housing Rehab / Disaster Relief, as needed	$156,000
Foreclosure Prevention	$50,000
SHIP PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION	$57,601
General management, oversight, and coordination of the SHIP Program
TOTAL SHIP FY2007-2008 EXPENDITURES	$576,008

FAU hosts Michael and Madelyn Savarick music competition

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Florida Atlantic University's department of music recently hosted the Michael and Madelyn Savarick Music Competition on FAU's Boca Raton campus. The annual competition is for musicians ages 11-18 in Miami-Dade, Broward, Palm Beach and Martin counties.

First-place winners included:

- Composition- Michael Anderson, Wellington, Lynn Conservatory
- Winds/Percussion- Natalie Zeldin, Boca Raton, Atlantic High
- Voice- Birgid Kegel, Palm

City, South Fork High School

- Piano- Mark Mayea, Boca Raton, Omni Middle School
- Strings- Chloe Fedor, Davie, Broward Virtual School

Judges included renowned opera singer Dean Peterson, and FAU faculty members Edward Turgeon, Sean Murray, Stuart Glazer, Patricia Fleitas and Rebecca Lautar. The competitors were judged on their artistry and individuality. The judges also evaluated focus, and the quality of personal music statements and concepts. The competition was sponsored by Madelyn Savarick. Support was also provided by Floss Keesely and Wachovia Bank, in collaboration with FAU's School of the Arts in the Dorothy F. Schmidt College of Arts and Letters.

"We are grateful to Madelyn Savarick for her love of music and of young musicians. Her vision, wisdom and generosity made this exciting event possible," said Heather Coltman, chair of FAU's department of music.

T. Rowe Price opens investor center in Boca Raton

FROM STAFF REPORTS

T. Rowe Price has announced the opening of a new walk-in investor center in Boca Raton to provide a wide array of personal investment services to South Florida investors.

The center is the global investment management firm's second in Florida, after a similar center in Tampa.

The Boca Raton investor center is located on the first floor of the Wachovia Plaza, 925 South Federal Highway.

"We have a very strong client base in Florida, and the Boca Raton investor center will enable us to better serve investors in South Florida who prefer to meet with a T. Rowe Price investment counselor and who want to access a wide range of investment resources all in one place," said Edward C. Bernard, chairman of T. Rowe Price Investment Services.

"The new center reflects our ongoing commitment to meet the needs of our clients, helping them manage their investments in a convenient, comfortable way and make the right decisions to reach their financial goals."

The Boca Raton investor center offers investment guidance. Investors can work one-on-one with an investment counselor to review their portfolios, develop asset-allocation strategies, or plan for retirement — using the firm's proprietary investment planning tools.

Investors can also obtain information about no-load funds. They also can open new accounts or obtain personal assistance with transactions.

Also, investors can place orders for the purchase and sale of individual securities and deposit stock certificates in an account.

The Boca Raton and Tampa facilities are two of 14 T. Rowe Price investor centers nationwide.

Klein joins in introducing bill to replace deteriorating hurricane tracking satellite

FROM STAFF REPORTS

Concerned that the most accurate hurricane tracking satellite is in danger of falling into disrepair, U.S. Rep. Ron Klein joined Rep. Charlie Melancon (D-LA) today in introducing the "Improved Hurricane Tracking and Forecasting Act of 2007." This bill would authorize the necessary NASA funding to design and launch a replacement satellite for QuikSCAT. Sen. Mary Landrieu (D-LA), Bill Nelson (D-FL), Mel Martinez (R-FL), and John Kerry (D-MA) introduced a companion bill in the Senate.

"More than any other tracking tool, the QuikSCAT satellite provides the most accurate data for forecasting hurricanes," said Klein. "Given that the satellite is in danger of going off-line, it is critically important Congress appropriate the necessary funding to get replacement technology in place."

"That is why I am joining my friend from Louisiana, Rep. Charlie Melancon, to introduce the Improved Hurricane Tracking and Forecasting Act of 2007. This bill would provide the funding necessary to design and launch a replacement satellite for QuikSCAT. Taxpayers in Florida and throughout the country expect the National Hurricane Center to provide them with life saving information, and Congress has a responsibility to provide the Hurricane Center the resources it needs to generate this data."

In 1999

NASA launched the QuikSCAT satellite in 1999. After its launch, The QuikSCAT satellite proved to provide valuable data that helps to more accurately track and forecast hurricanes and other deadly storms. Originally designed for a life expectancy of three years, QuikSCAT has now been operating for eight years with no replacement set to launch in the near future.

The "Improved Hurricane Tracking and Forecasting Act of 2007" would fix this problem. It would authorize $375 million for NASA to design and launch a replacement satellite for QuikSCAT, incorporating improved technology to continue forecasting for hurricanes, coastal winds and storm surge, and other weather-related disasters. The bill would also require that NASA provide annual reports on the status of the program to ensure fiscal responsibility and up-to-date operational information on the status of the satellite.

"Allowing our ability to track hurricanes to deteriorate before our very eyes is unacceptable," said Klein. "Given that over half of all Americans live within 50 miles of the coast line, this is not just an issue that affects us in South Florida, but is an issue that impacts a majority of the American people. I am committed to working with both Democrats and Republicans in Congress to ensuring that we secure the funding we need for this vital satellite."

Since learning about the pending demise of the QuikSCAT satellite, Rep. Klein has made it a top priority to find a replacement. He has met with representatives from the National Weather Service, the National Hurricane Center, and the Air Force Reserve to discuss alternatives to QuikSCAT, and is now pleased to join Rep. Melancon in introducing the "Improved Hurricane Tracking and Forecasting Act of 2007."

1 in 3 HIV positive gay men report unprotected sex

FROM STAFF REPORTS

A tale of 3 cities -- Persisting high HIV prevalence, risk behavior and undiagnosed infection in community samples of men who have sex with men.

More than one in three HIV positive gay men say they have unprotected sex, reveals a community survey, published ahead of print in the journal Sexually Transmitted Infections.

And almost one in five HIV negative men said that they do the same, the figures show.

The findings are based on a survey of men at gay bars, clubs, and saunas in London, Manchester, and Brighton between 2003 and 2004.

The surveys, which were carried out at 90 venues, involved information on lifestyle, background, and sexual behavior.

Almost 3600 questionnaires were handed out, 2640 of which were completed. Saliva samples were also requested to find out about HIV prevalence, and 2311 men agreed to provide these.

The rate of HIV infection was highest in Brighton, at almost 14 percent, and lowest in Manchester, at 8.6 percent.

But the rates of undiagnosed infection was high in all three cities, ranging from one in three in Brighton to more than four out of 10 (4 percent) in London.

Across the entire sample, one in three men who was HIV positive did not know they had the infection.

This was despite the fact that over two thirds of these men said they had been to a sexual health (GUM) clinic within the past year.

Almost one in five (18 percent) of HIV negative men and over a third (37 percent) of HIV positive men said they had had unprotected sex with more than one partner in the past year.

Over the same time period, one in five HIV negative men and four out of 10 HIV positive men said that they had had a sexually transmitted infection.

correspondence, or declaration of domicile form from county records department.

"I think it will help control our headaches," said School Board member Bob Kanjian, referring to boundary jumpers.

The School Board received a migraine earlier in the year when 45 students reported that they used a friend's address or old address to stay at Jupiter High School. Twenty-two were seniors.

In another incident, the district school food service department sent out letters for free and reduced lunch meals, 7,000 of those letters were returned undeliverable. Thus, the district formed the address verification committee to catch boundary jumpers and families.

More Proof

Additionally under the proposed policy, parents of all new and returning students must annually complete a new and returning student registration form. Also, additional proof may be required if a county school exceeds 100 percent enrollment capacity. As for capacity, Kanjian thinks the bar should be set before schools are overcrowded.

"It should be at zero percent capacity not 100 percent," he said.

Besides at or over capacity, district officials say they look at

"I think the principal's role is improper. We need to take principals out of politics," Kanjian said.

However, district officials say principals were chosen because "they know the students personally."

Penalty

If caught knowingly providing a false address in writing, the penalty could be a misdemeanor of the second degree. Those students will also be removed from that school and reassigned to the school that is in the boundary, although parents will have ten days from the notification to file an appeal.

Some board members suggested creating a milder penalty for those who "come forward."

"We should not yank them out in the middle of the year," said board member Debra Robinson.

other triggers such as returned mail, a problem with boundary jumping, and other factors. The district will also set up an "anonymous residency tips line."

Principal's Role

The principal's duty of catching boundary jumpers also concerned some board members.

It may be time to think about raising some capital

Last week, I wrote about your ability to utilize the summertime as your time to focus on how you and your business have done since the beginning of the year. I hope all of you have been able to determine what goals you have been able to achieve and what goals are still far away.

I find that, quite often, most business owners tend to focus on their cash position during the summertime. Sometimes they're looking for some extra money for a short vacation. Other times, they're preparing for the ramp up towards the fall and winter season by finalizing seasonal plans in order to be fully stocked, staffed and ready for the season.

Sources of capital

Over the course of the month of June, I'm going to explore this issue of obtaining money for your business. This week's column is a general listing of the various types of capital sources available for your business. Subsequent articles will address some of these alternatives, along with specific places to go to, both physically and virtually, in order to obtain the money. Most businesses always need money and therefore it is my goal to give you the information to utilize, now or in the future.

Money for your business, also known as business capital, is a critical component for all businesses throughout its entire business life. Although there are many types of business capital, all types are either in the form of debt or equity. My simple definition of debt is money that you acquire for your business, which requires some form of repayment to the lender under specified terms and conditions.

Alternatively, my simple definition of equity is money that you acquire for your business, which gives the individual or entity that contributed the money ownership rights in the business. There are also a variety of hybrids of these forms as well. Whatever form you choose will dictate how you will have to handle its repayment.

Money for your business is obtained in a variety of ways. Some of the most common ways to attain capital for your business are by credit cards, friends and family, home equity loans, personal notes or loans from a bank, borrowing or cashing in pensions, IRA's, 401(k)'s and other types of retirement accounts, private investors, personal savings, federal state and local governments, venture capitalists, private equity funds and your vendors and suppliers. Each and every one of these alternatives can ultimately put capital into your coffers or provide you the credit that you need for your business. They will also dictate the terms and conditions of your use of that money in your business.

Acceptable terms

Your goal, when it comes to obtaining money for your business, is to find the money that you need under the terms and conditions that are acceptable to you. What may be acceptable to one business owner may not be acceptable to another. Always make sure to read the fine print when the money comes with an agreement, and know what you are agreeing to. Intentions, by either party, do not count unless it is specifically memorialized in writing.

Finally, before you start on your quest to obtain the capital that you may need, please make sure that you have thoroughly thought out all of your financial needs. It is much easier and worth your while to spending a little extra time planning for all of your capital needs at one time. Plan wisely and make sure to know what you are getting yourself into.

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The American Red Cross Greater Palm Beach Area Chapter has partnered with Volunteers for Homebound & Family Caregivers (VHFC) for the next three years to provide youth caregivers with the understanding of what is involved in caring for a family member and how to provide safe care.

This program, entitled the Caregiving Youth Pilot Project, has a mission to recognize, support and promote the awareness of dual-role young people who are both students and caregivers within families.

Thanks to support from The Gertrude E. Skelly Charitable Foundation and other partners, the American Red Cross and VHFC have facilitated special Lunch & Learn sessions at Boca Raton Middle School and Congress Middle School as one of the program venues of providing the student caregivers with valuable information and assistance in caring for elder family members.

“The Lunch & Learn Resource

Table that we set up in the cafeteria each week is one way that we make the project approachable to the students,” said Karen Harwood, MSW and Care Coordinator of the Caregiving Youth Pilot Project in Boca Raton. “Students could easily relate to our Red Cross Youth Volunteer Intern, Nathalie Prosper, who encouraged and let students know that they were not alone in caring for an ill or disabled family member.”

A graduate of University of Florida, Nathalie, a Red Cross Intern, joined forces with Karen Harwood to facilitate the Caregiving Youth Project Lunch & Learn programs. As a caregiving youth, Nathalie was able to share information that she learned first-hand with the students in the program.

In addition to the Lunch & Learn programs at the middle schools, there are various other support services that are in school, outside of school and at home that are offered to caregiving families. The Caregiving Youth Pilot Project recently hosted Camp Treasure, a retreat for the student caregivers. Held at Gold Coast Christian Camp on April, 14 young persons enjoyed time away from responsibilities at home while they ate s'mores by the campfire, swam under the supervision of a Red Cross volunteer lifeguard, Hula-hooped and learned how to safely assist family members with the use of wheelchairs, walkers, canes and crutches.

“The Caregiving Youth Project is the first in the U.S., and the American Red Cross is very excited to be a part of this pilot plan,” said JB Hunt, CEO of the American Red Cross Greater Palm Beach Area Chapter. “But more importantly, we are honored to provide education and information to these young heroes.”

TAKING STOCK

Don't let 'sniffers' nose around proprietary software

Dear Mr. Berko:

I have a proprietary stock market formula that uses various unit trusts to generate long-term gains and or income for my clients. I've only been in this business for five years but my record is very good. I purchase unit trusts with zero commission costs and specific stock market objectives to match the investment of my clients. Each account will own six to eight unit-trusts with maturities of at least 12 months. I charge 1.25 percent a year and have $54.6 million under management. My clients are low-risk investors. They are happy because the risks are low and the results are very good and I'm happy because I have a "Magic Bullet" (that's what my wife calls it) that hits the target my clients give me. Now my manager told me that we are going to be visited by a New York Stock Exchange auditor (he calls them "pretty boys") next month and that they will want me to show them how my system works, explain how I select the specific unit trust objectives and how I determine what percentage of a client's portfolio is invested in each category. I don't want to disclose my formula. I perfected it over five years and it belongs to me. It's proprietary and if I disclose the methods, then anyone can use it and I have nothing unique to present to clients. My manager is no help and tells me that I have to provide it to them if they ask for it. I know you've been around a long time and I would appreciate any advice or help you can give me.

Concerned in Illinois

Dear Concerned in Illinois:

Settle down. I've been in this business before you were in knickers, going on 45 years to be exact, and watched a lot of water flow over the dam. And I've met dozens of "sniffers" (that's what veterans in this business call them) who visit the branch offices of Merrill Lynch, Dean Witter, Prudential, Oppenheimer, etc. However, most sniffers wouldn't know a blue chip from a buffalo chip; think that Moody's is a Bible study course and the 30 Industrials is a new NFL franchise team. Their visit to your office may be the first time they've left home on their own.

They're not bright lads and don't have to be because they are hired to count things and make sure that the cleaning crew isn't pilfering the petty cash. Sniffers count rolls of toilet paper, copy machine usage plus incoming and outgoing phone calls. They check filing cabinets for rust deposits and secretly film the maintenance people to catch security violations. Then they scoot around the office with puppy dog enthusiasm hoping a secretary will invite them home for dinner. Sniffers are not the sharpest tools in the shed and most have passed the Dale Carnegie personality course ... so they're usually friendly lads. But when they interview you to discuss your accounts, be sincere, even if you don't mean it. And always call them "sir" and respond with a "Yes, sir" or "No, sir." They love to be called "sir."

However, you do not have to disclose your proprietary methods with a sniffer or the New York Stock Exchange. Neither a sniffer nor the exchange has the right to your data. And if they request disclosure, then you have the right to ask for "specific authority," which is similar to a warrant. In that case, you have time to prepare pages of mysterious gobbledygook with colored graphs, statistical probabilities, projections, pictures and give it some fancy title. But not to worry: according to recent autopsies, the brains of most sniffers are sculpted from moldy cottage cheese and can't discern fact from fiction.

I'm familiar with your unit trust concept and it's a swell way to use the power of diversification, various management techniques, measured risk control, diverse category selection and sector timing in a managed portfolio to generate appreciation and/or income. We have a close acquaintance who uses his proprietary construct to purchase unit trusts for managed accounts and his record is similar to yours. We are impressed with its simplicity, its success and low cost and from time to time, under our banner, we employ his expertise in managing some of our accounts. But more importantly, he, too, was asked to divulge his proprietary methods a few years ago. And because this is a family paper I can not repeat the manner of his refusal. Needless to say, he's never been asked again. So hold your water and if a sniffer gets up close and personal, have him call me.

Please address your financial questions to Malcolm Berko, P.O. Box 1416, Boca Raton, FL 33429 or e-mail him at malber@adelphia.net.

Thousands walk to save babies

By John Johnston

MANAGING EDITOR

Palm Beach County — and including the many who walked from Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton -- recently raised more than $700,000 at March of Dimes WalkAmerica. Thousands of people participated to further the March of Dimes mission of insuring all babies get a healthy start in life.

"We know we can make a difference by giving hope to families. We can help give all babies the gift of a healthy start," said Jorge Dominicus, South Palm Beach County WalkAmerica Chair.

"We are proud that Palm Beach County joined the millions of compassionate people across the country who support WalkAmerica every year," said Chuck Stein, West Palm Beach WalkAmerica Chair.

More than half a million babies are born too soon every year, and many die. More than 120,000 babies are born with serious birth defects that can mean a lifetime of disability. With the money raised in WalkAmerica babies will be saved through premature birth and birth defects resulting from top-level research into causes and preventions. The March of Dimes also brings information and emotional support to families who have had a premature baby, or sick baby who is being treated in a neonatal intensive care unit (NICU).

In Boca

In Palm Beach County, WalkAmerica was held at two different locations: John Prince Park in Lake

Worth and Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton. The weather cooperated, and thousands were treated to a fun time-shared with friends and family.

Like Family Team Kayla, led by her father Tony Manganello and 60 team walkers. Kayla was born 17 weeks early and weighing less than a pound and a half. Multiple blood transfusions, platelet trans-fusions, chronic lung disease, a fungal infection in her umbilical cord, bradycardic episodes, and apnea attacks were just a few hurdles conquered.

"It was six weeks before we were able to hold her for the first time. With Kayla being born very premature, three things saved her life; prayer, skilled physicians, and March of Dimes," said Tony. Today, five months past her first birthday, she is a healthy and happy baby. She weighs nearly 23 pounds and her doctor says that she is in the 50th percentile of her age group and doing very well.

Premature birth is the number one cause of newborn death, and endangers the lives of more than half a million babies annually, according to the March of Dimes. Last year, more than 20,000 teams nationwide participated in WalkAmerica. For those who couldn't walk and who wish to make a donation, or to find out about upcoming events, visit marchofdimes.com/florida or call 561-684-0102.

Fun and games for JARC clients at Appreciation Day

Clients from the Jewish Association for Residential Care in Boca Raton enjoyed a barbecue, listened to music and played games as part of the agency's second annual Client Appreciation Day June 1 at the Mel and Elaine Stein Living and Learning Center.

About 100 clients joined 20 staff members. They played ping pong and musical chairs and competed in television trivia, water balloon races, a scavenger hunt, a tug-of-war, a three-legged race and a football toss. They also created arts and craft projects.

1- Spencer Wainger pulls the rope during a tug-of-war game while Eileen Helpem, Adam Dinan, and instructor Maria Ciuca help in the back.

2- Debra Robinson high-fives Ronald Rand after winning the tug-of-war game.

3- The group enjoys lunch.

4- Matt Silver throws a water balloon during one of the day's activities. Fellow clients Perry and Randy participate as well.

5- Raphael Carajal and Coach Harriett Poster prepare the day's lunch.

6- Randy Kravitz, Eddy Doyle and instructor Eve show the face of victory of being the winning team.

7- Jeffrey Stillman plays ping-pong.

Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Thursday, June 7, 2007:

This year you will leave an impression wherever you go, if that is what you desire. Your community and professional image builds to a new level, allowing for greater opportunities. Know what you want, and you'll take the first step down the path toward success. Understand what a strong power you could become. Be willing to brainstorm and openly change your opinions. Invest in your future, perhaps through education. If you are single, meeting people will be a snap. Choosing the right person might not be as easy or successful. Be aware that someone important will enter your life in 2007. If you are attached, loosen up and allow more back-and-forth. Recognize that at times you could be demanding. PISCES triggers you. The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES March 21-April 19

★★ Intuitively you know when to step down from the plate and head for the dugout. What you thought might work has perhaps a 50/50 chance. Brainstorm with someone who has different ideas. Solutions will appear. Tonight: Rest up the weekend is coming.

TAURUS April 20-May 20

★★★★ You'll gain only if you step down and back off from the role of star of the show. Allow others to come forward and lead. The satisfaction gained by all parties is irreplaceable. Build a stronger support team with friends and family. Tonight: Only where people are.

GEMINI May 21-June 20

★★★★ Don't try any other direction than the obvious one, even if you feel a touch bored. Another path might work, but being somewhat conventional counts to many in your life. Confirm through a conversation that all of you are on the same page. Tonight: A force to be handled.

CANCER June 21-July 22

★★★★ Your vision combines with your ingenuity, creating the possibility of a slam-dunk. The unconventional path opens doors and helps you understand. Tune in to your intuitive and spiritual side. Tonight: Exercise to good music.

LEO July 23-Aug. 22

★★★★ The Lion loves the lime-light or wants everything his or her way. Most likely, you personally manifest this characteristic. Right now, relax and be passive. No pouncing, just receiving or following. Tonight: Time with a special person.

VIRGO Aug. 23-Sept. 22

★★★★ Allow someone else to command and make decisions. At the present point, all you would get is flak with each decision. Be smart and know when to pull back. Brainstorm and be open to different ideas. Tonight: Just don't be alone. Of course, you could throw a spontaneous party.

LIBRA Sept. 23-Oct. 22

★★★★ All work and no play might add to your present grumpiness. Consider the sense of satisfaction you will have when you accomplish your goals. A conversation could be provocative, forcing you to consider some basics. Tonight: Get some exercise -- the summer is coming!

SCORPIO Oct. 23-Nov. 21

★★★★ Sometimes carrying around a tape recorder or notebook might be smart, like today. Your creativity swells, and you might want to jot down an idea or two. You'll also meet people with ease and exude unusual magnetism. Tonight: Start the weekend early.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22-Dec. 21

★★★ Prioritize, as you might have a lot on your mind. You could be scattered, impulsively going from one direction to another. Know when to say "enough." Try working from home if possible. Turn on the answering machine. Tonight: Happy at home.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 19

★★★★ Others seek you out for what seems to be way too many reasons, especially if you are trying to concentrate. Your popularity soars, though you might be impatient with the interruptions. Go with the moment. Much news heads your way. Tonight: Hang out with friends.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20-Feb. 18

★★★ Stop. Make sure you absolutely know what you are doing with money and spending. What you believe is OK could become a problem. Tap into a friend's resourcefulness. Organize your routine more. Tonight: First pay bills or look at your budget.

PISCES Feb. 19-March 20

★★★★ A child or loved one is full of information and feedback if you express a willingness to listen. Your personality helps others reveal their thoughts and perhaps a hidden self. Don't judge so much. You will be happier. Tonight: Others will join in.

Male Enhancement Products ... Do They REALLY Work?

How To Improve. Increase. ENJOY.

Q: Dear Stefanie,

I've been having some confidence issues. It's really dragging me and my relationship with my wife down. I wanted to try some pills I heard about but I found out they can take 3 or more months to work. In your judgment, does anything work faster or better?

Jason M. Manhattan Beach, CA

A: Well Jason,

The verdict is in and I just happen to have the perfect answer to boost you, and your confidence, while giving improving your relationship with your wife ... repeatedly!

For months my fiancé was feeling the exact same way you were and then, one night, we had the most phenomenal sex, EVER. I'd never seen him more excited and powerful. The feelings we shared together were totally mind-blowing. He just keeps getting better and better. It's amazing! I can't get enough of him now! I had to know what brought about this drastic change. So, I asked him. To my shock, he handed me a tube of Maxoderm. I just couldn't believe this product Maxoderm was actually making him feel more virile, and way more vigorous.

Recommended by Leading Physician, Michael A. Savino, M.D., F.A.C.S., it's the premiere, fast-acting topical lotion designed to instantly enhance erection quality and the feeling of firmness, while intensifying our sensation or the ultimate sexual experience. Don't be fooled by the companies selling those "miracle" sex pills claiming to grow you 3-4 inches. As little as 5% of the pill actually makes it into your system. To my intimate knowledge, Maxoderm's targeted delivery system effectively reaches the desired area directly upon application maximizing absorption to result in a performance to be proud of each and every time. I'm a huge (and grateful) fan of Maxoderm. And, trust me, I know my fiancé is too!

Maxoderm IS Instant Male Enhancement You can check out Maxoderm by calling 1-800-360-2417 or going to www.getmaxoderm.com. I know they offer RISK FREE TRIALS and even give a FREE MONTH SUPPLY with your order. Oh and best of all, Maxoderm is backed by a 90 day Money Back Guarantee. You can't beat that!

Delightfully Yours,

READER'S NOTE *MAXODERM RISK FREE OFFER

"We know that once you try Maxoderm you'll never want to go without it again - it's that simple. We're so confident that we're giving an unheard of 90-Day Full Money Back Guarantee! Order 2 tubes Risk-Free Today and we'll throw in a third tube for FREE and FOR A LIMITED TIME, you can still get $200 worth of Free Gifts with your order that are yours to keep - no questions asked. Girls learn the proper way to position themselves on the volleyball court at the Optimum Performance Volleyball Camp Tuesday at West Boca Raton High. The camp was for middle school students and volleyball beginners.

Kids learn volleyball fundamentals

By Mario Sarmiento
SPORTS EDITOR

For the last four years, West Boca Raton High volleyball coach Courtney Fochtman has been running her Optimum Performance Volleyball Camps at school during the summer.

"We're trying pretty much to promote the program here at West Boca and also the community," she said. "Get the kids involved in volleyball as much as possible."

This was the second week of the camp for middle school students, which ends Friday.

Fochtman will organize two more camps, July 9-12 and July 16-19 at West Boca, but those are specialized camps for advanced players.

This week's session was for beginners, where Fochtman and her assistant coaches tried to lay the groundwork for players by teaching fundamentals and showing them the right way to eat and train.

Kristina Megonegal, 11, attended this week's camp after playing her first season of volleyball at Unity School.

"We're doing a lot of passing and setting and we're going to do serves," she said. "I think it's helping me a lot because it's helping me with my skill work."

Girls who had never played volleyball before, like 11-year-old Stephanie Lorenc, also learned a great deal at the camp.

"It's a lot of fun and I learned a lot of new skills," she said.

Lorenc hopes she'll be able to use what she learned the last two weeks to help her make the Logger's Run Middle School team next year.

Besides playing, the other benefit Fochtman said the girls get is communicating with each other.

Many of the girls in the camps don't know each other at first, so during the week they develop new friendships that help them get more comfortable in dealing with new people.

Megonegal's transition to Don Estridge High Tech Middle School will be easier since she met a girl who attends the school already at this week's camp.

The Specialized Camp for Hitters and Setters is for girls in grades 6-12. It will be held July 9-12 from 6-9 p.m. at West Boca.

The Advanced/Elite Camp July 16-19 is also from 6-9 p.m. and is for girls in grades 7-12 who have club or varsity experience.

Each camp is $150. For more information, call Courtney Fochtman at 414-4242, or Katie D'Annuzio at 482-5616.

Team Boca has good showing in Houston

NEWS STAFF REPORTS

Team Boca sent five teams to the 207 Texas Shootout last weekend, with the U14 girls finishing undefeated at 3-0-1.

The U14 girls, who will play in the Southern Regionals later this month, tied the Texas Olympic Developmental Program (ODP) team 1-1.

Texas ODP is one of the top ODP teams in the country.

The U14 girls also routed the Bay Oaks Blasters and Solar 93 Girls 4-0, and defeated FC Dallas Youth 93 Girls 3-0.

The U13 girls went 1-2-1, defeating TSC Challenge Blitz 94 4-0, and losing to the Dallas Texans Red 94 1-0 and the FC Dallas Youth Girls 2-1. They tied the Andromeda Girls 94 1-1.

The U15 girls went 2-1, defeating Rio Vista FC Sparks 1-0 and Rebels Select Red LV 92 3-0 before falling to the Colorado Pride Predators 1-0.

The U16 girls also went 2-1, topping Real Colorado National U16 1-0 and Sereno 91 White 2-1. They lost 1-0 to Washington Premier FC 90.

The U17 girls went 1-1-1, defeating Bay Oaks U18 2-0, tying 90 Pros Girls 3-3 and falling 1-0 to 90 Ladybugs.

End of the Culpepper era in Miami

By Mario Sarmiento
SPORTS EDITOR

The news that the Kansas City Chiefs and Miami Dolphins had finally completed a trade that sent quarterback Trent Green to Miami for a fifth-round pick likely spells the end of the Daunte Culpepper era after one short year.

If Culpepper is released as is expected, he will be known as the biggest failure in Nick Saban's brief tenure (besides Saban bolting for college after insisting he was staying in Miami.)

So what did the Dolphins get for their investment of a second-round pick? A season in which Culpepper was rushed into game action before he was ready, bore little resemblance to the Pro Bowl quarterback he once had been and then was shelved for the year after undergoing another procedure on his injured knee.

But is this the right move for the Fins?

It's clear that from the beginning, Culpepper was never going to be a Cam Cameron's choice as a quarterback.

The Culpepper

long protracted dalliance with Green proved that, as did Cameron's selection of John Beck in the second round of this year's NFL Draft — not to mention the re-signing of Cleo Lemon.

Cameron, who by all accounts is a quarterback guru, never liked Culpepper for his system.

Perhaps he believes that Culpepper isn't the best decision-maker at the position, and perhaps he was scared away by all the mistakes Culpepper makes while trying to make the big play (16 turnovers in his last 11 games over two seasons).

But why give up on one of the game's most talented quarterbacks now? Culpepper hasn't played a down for Cameron yet, and he already seems to be headed out the door before he has shown he is fully recovered from his injury.

Isn't this the same hasty decision-making that has hurt Miami with quarterbacks in the past? Remember A.J. Feeley for a second-round pick, or how about Saban famously going with Culpepper over Brees last year?

Won't Cameron be doing exactly what Saban did last year in his ill-fated attempt to move the franchise forward?

Shouldn't Culpepper at least be given an opportunity to work in Cameron's system and play a few games before he's tossed onto the NFL scrap heap?

Remember, this was a man who only three years ago threw for 39 touchdowns and just 11

Boynton Beach honors graduating athletes

Special to the News

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

The graduating middle school athletes of Saint Joseph's Episcopal School in Boynton Beach were recognized at the annual sports banquet on May 24.

Athletic Director Becky Cleveland and Physical Education Director Jay Judson honored members of the school's volleyball, flag football, basketball, soccer, softball, baseball and tennis teams.

Special Coach Awards were given to Casey Donnelly, whose favorite sport is basketball, and to Kervens Germain-Philistin, whose favorite sport is soccer.

Germain-Philistin also received the Most Valuable Player award for soccer.

FAU's Levow named faculty rep for NCAA

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

Dr. Roy Levow has been named Florida Atlantic University's Faculty Athletic Representative (FAR) for the NCAA. As the FAR, Levow will work with the FAU Center for Academic Excellence to monitor the student-athletes matriculation and eligibility.

"We are delighted President Brogan has selected Dr. Levow as FAU's Faculty Athletic Representative," said Craig Angelos, FAU's director of athletics. "Dr. Levow is well respected by the faculty, and his FAU historical background will assist us tremendously as we continue to grow the Athletics program."

Levow's efforts as the FAR will be a continuum of successes from his previous role as the past president of the University Faculty Senate, a position that led him to hold a seat on the Board of Trustees for FAU.

"I am thrilled to have this opportunity to serve FAU and our student athletes," said Levow. "This position at the interface between academics and athletics fosters the best aspect of our Division I Athletics program."

Culpepper

interceptions in one of the great NFL seasons in history.

And now he's not good enough to start for a team that has had names like Gus Frerotte and Jay Fiedler entrenched at the position since Dan Marino's retirement seven years ago?

Cameron had better be right about this, because if Culpepper winds up on another team and starts flinging footballs around like his 2004 self, his name might end up next to Brees on the list of great quarterbacks the Dolphins have let slip away.

Lynn men's golf announces three signings

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

Lynn University head men's golf coach Chris Greenwood announced the signing of three golfers for the 2007-08 season.

Junior college transfer Jordan Holley and freshmen Zach Kozuchowski and Alex Kang will join a Fighting Knights squad that reached the NCAA Regional Tournament for the fifth consecutive year.

Holley led Cape Fear Community College to a 12th place finish at the National Junior College Athletic Association National Championships and closed out the season with a 74.1 stroke average.

The Wilmington, N.C. native posted six top-three finishes in 11 tournaments and was especially strong down the stretch where he notched five top-three finishes in his final seven tournaments.

Holley earned medalist honors at the Hurricane Fusillade and Barton Invitational, finished runner-up twice, including the NJCAA Regional Tournament, and took third twice.

One of the most highly touted freshmen in Michigan, Kozuchowski was a 2006 Michigan High School Athletics Association Mr. Golf nominee, reserved for one of the top-three players in the state.

He finished runner-up, losing in a playoff hole at the MHSAA State Championship but the Macomb County Player of the Year did earn victories though at the Regional and District championships.

A four-time all-state honore in golf, Kozuchowski is also an outstanding baseball player, earning MHSAA All-Region and All-District honors.

The Fighting Knights final recruit, Kang, is the fifth ranked high school senior in North Carolina.

The Hickory, N.C. product has four career tournament victories including the 2006 Coastal Plains Junior Amateur Championship and 2005 Ken and Betty Isaacs Junior Championship.

He also placed fifth at the Division 3A NCHSAA State Championship.

All three incoming players will vie for playing time against PING All-Region selection Scott Aydelotte, Federico Celano, Greg Gonzales, Fletcher Coonan and Patricio Salem, all of whom logged playing time in over 17 rounds.
